

Model United Nations Government Research Project

Throughout the conference experience, you will be representing a country. The Government Research Project is a tool to help you make arguments, write resolutions, determine other countries you should collaborate with, and suggest amendments that your country's national government would support. You can add any other information to your GRP that you feel is pertinent to accurately represent your country's position. The assignment is split between Key Information, your government's Position on Topics, and a Draft Resolution for Mock Session.

Part I: Key Information

Name of Country
Location of Country (Continent/Region, Bordering neighbors)
Population
Main Language(s)
Religion(s)
Literacy Rate (%)

Political and Governmental Information

Type of Government
Current Head(s) of State
How long has the current form of government been in place?
Who are your government's main allies?
Are there other governments with which your government does not have diplomatic relations?
What are the military capabilities of your government?

Does your government have current and/or recent rivalry
--	--

Economic Information

GDP
Major Industries
Economic with other countries economically (Example: Major exporter? Producer of oil? Member of a common monetary union like the Euro Zone?)
Employment Rate
Major Exports
Natural Resources
Trading partners
National Debt
Food Security (does your country import most of its food and agriculture products)
Environmental risks and assets

Part II: Positions on Topics

This section challenges you to think about your country's position on the topics you will be debating at the conference. The topics for your assigned committee can be found online at: <https://www.gpyce.org/>

Look to the news to see how your country has responded to these topics in recent years. BBC, Al Jazeera, the Guardian, Reuters, All Africa, the United Nations are all great places to start. You are required to cite a minimum of 10 veritable sources.

Topic 1:
What is your government's position on this topic throughout history? What are the domestic and political factors that influenced your government's position? What are the international factors that influenced your government's position?

Your Answers:

What is your government's position on this topic currently?

If your government has recently changed its position on this topic, what has influenced the change in position?

Your Answers:

What is your government's recommended course of action regarding the topic?

What does your government hope to accomplish? What needs to change to achieve this goal? How might this be accomplished? What other countries could you cooperate with to achieve this goal? What other governments might support this course of action? What other governments might oppose this course of action?

Your answers:

Topic 2:

What is your government's position on this topic throughout history?

What are the domestic and political factors that influenced your government's position? What are the international factors that influenced your government's position?

Your Answers:

What is your government's position on this topic currently?

If your government has recently changed its position on this topic, What has influenced the change in the government's position?

Your Answers:

What is your government's recommended course of action regarding the topic?

What does the government hope to accomplish? What needs to change to achieve this goal? How might this be accomplished? What other countries could you cooperate with to achieve this goal? What other governments might support this course of action? What other governments might oppose this course of action?

Your answers:

Topic 3:

What is your government's position on this topic throughout history?

What are the domestic and political factors that influenced your government's position? What are the international factors that influenced your government's position?

Your Answers:

What is your government's position on this topic currently?

If your government has recently changed its position on this topic, what has influenced the change in the government's position? What has influenced any change in the government's position?

Your Answers:

What is your government's recommended course of action regarding the topic?

What does your government hope to accomplish? What needs to change to achieve this goal? How might this be accomplished? What other countries could you cooperate with to achieve this goal? What other governments might support this course of action? What other governments might oppose this course of action? What does the government hope to accomplish? What needs to change to achieve this goal? How might this be accomplished? What other countries could you cooperate with to achieve this goal? What other governments might support this course of action? What other governments might oppose this course of action?

Your answers:

Works Cited:

Please include at least 10 scholarly or news sources using MLA format (you can use easybib.com for formatting help).

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.
- 4.
- 5.
- 6.
- 7.
- 8.
- 9.
- 10.

Part III: Resolution

The final piece of this assignment is to write a Draft Resolution. A resolution is a written document that proposes a solution or action around the topic. A resolution in the United Nations is similar to a bill or proposed legislation in Congress. For Mock Session, please write a draft resolution on one of the topics that is being discussed and debated in your committee.